

PRESS RELEASE

The Berlin Main Street Program is asking volunteers to welcome spring by joining your friends and neighbors on Friday, May 27th for the Berlin Downtown Day of Caring. A few hours of time and some sweat equity is all it takes to make downtown Berlin look it's best for the upcoming summer season. They are looking for volunteers to help rake, prune, sweep, mulch, weed, and plant their way through multiple sites in the downtown area.

In appreciation for your dedication to the community, a barbecue is planned for lunchtime at Bickford Place for all volunteers.

As always, community volunteers are the key to the success of the project. Individuals, groups, or families can spend just an hour, entire morning or afternoon. Locations will be set up by the Berlin Main Street Program. Groups or organizations wishing to volunteer can sign up by e-mailing berlinmainstreetprogram@gmail.com or calling 603-752-6246 or 603-381-1520.

All participants should bring gardening supplies, if available, including gloves, brooms, rakes, wheelbarrows and other gardening hand tools they may have from home. Other supplies are available on site at Bickford Place Park.

Group of volunteers from HEB Engineering working on the 2015 Day of Caring